

HYGIENE

Ergonomic Lifting
Equipment Since 1940

logitrans.com

When hygiene is important!

If you work in clean or wet environments, you probably need products being easy to wipe off or clean with water.

Maybe you also need your products to be explosion proof. One thing is for sure, the products must be made of stainless steel, so that no shells of paint come into food, medicine or other ingredients.

Wide range of stainless products

At Logitrans, we produce a wide range of stainless products being tailor-made for both the pharmaceutical and food industries.

Our unique design ensures that the products are both easy to clean and easy to use.

Focus on ergonomics

With our products, the users are ensured ergonomically correct work positions and good organisation of the workplace.

Fewer sick days

For the company, fewer sick days and more satisfied employees are achieved. In addition, you get products lasting for many years and are good for both environment and economy.

Why choose a product from Logitrans?

- In general, we use the best steel quality available in the market
- We use 316L AISI steel for the forks
- We are market leaders in stainless steel products! For 80 years we have shown that our quality is the best in the market.

"We have chosen Logitrans products for our medicine production, because they are ergonomically correct, because they take up very little space and because Logitrans has tailored a product for our production. The goods on the pallets are not damaged, as a special valve ensures that the forks, for example, stop quietly and precisely, it is by far, the best we have seen on the market".

Statement: Customer in the pharmaceutical industry

